- Analyze your present energy bills
- Perform a Blower Door Test: This equipment measures the infiltration rate of outside air through the house.
- Use Infrared Camera images to reveal where holes and cracks are permitting air to leak throughout the house: walls, roof, ceilings, windows, doors, electrical outlets, fixtures, switches, fireplaces and plumbing fixtures.
- Use the Infrared camera to check the amount of insulation in your home and determine adequate caulking.
- Walk through to check overall safety of building envelope.
- Submit a report illustrating where energy is being lost and recommending cost-effective, common sense energy saving actions for your home.
